Acting as our shining North Star, she has guided our class ship along a course free from treacherous reefs and dangerous shoals and in grave times of storm and stress she gave us our bearings

A H O Y M A T E S

The Oriole Staff presents to you the Year Book of the Senior Class of January 1937, a chronicle of your achievements while in Evander, and a fitting climax to eight terms of hard work! We sincerely hope that it will be warmly received and appreciated. The theme of this Oriole is Geography, with all its applications and implications, and the knocks and boosts were suggested largely by geographical terms and data. The topic, we believe, is appropriate to the trend of the times when space and physical barriers have been so reduced as to make all the world a close fraternity.

The future will see our class scattered over the face of the globe. We will be the forerunners of any social and political change. As we graduate, internationalism is the topic of the day. Countries and people that were once only names in dusty books are now the dramatic geography of the daily news. Indeed Geography is not alone the theme of the Oriole, but the key to tomorrow!

Soon, Evander Childs will be a happy memory ne'er to be forgotten, and though time may dull treasured memories we hope our Oriole will sweep away time's cobwebs and will recall a-new our fondest years. In bringing you this Year Book, the Oriole Staff has endeavored to make it most representative of the spirit of our class, namely good fellow-ship. Years hence, the pictures of classmates will bring to mind the many friendships you made and the scenes of school activities will help you to live once more through cherished school days. "In the Wake" will recall to you the joyous times we experienced together. Thoughts of our Senior dances and our promenades will float back to us. "From the Crows Nest" unfolds to you the future, and only time can tell whether our nonsensical prophesies shall perchance come true. Be assured, that the lessons we have learned here at Evander have been put to practical use in this Oriole. It is as perfect as we could possibly make it. In attributing a knock or boost to each member of the class the Oriole Staff gave them in good sportsmanship and true frankness. We only hope that you will receive your comment in the same spirit. We ask your indulgence on this point: that you realize they are but opinions and consequently are not infallible. Now that we have set ourselves at ease, we formally introduce you to the Oriole of the Class of January 1937.

Before the dawn of a new day for all of us, let us pause for a moment to reminisce. Let us gaze upon the footprints we have made during the four years we have spent in Evander's halls. We started life as a group of budding young minds, laboring under the stigma of being Freshmen. What thrills the lordly Sophomores had in store for us; sending us down to the basement for our lunch. Then our status in turn was changed to Sophomore.

With the passage of still another year we progressed into the Junior ranks. Here things really began to happen. Our sixth term witnessed the spectacle of the class coming together for the first time as a unit. Pauline Collins very graciously provided the various forms of entertainment, and Mrs. Stern helped us out of our terpsichorean difficulties by organizing a dancing club. The entire affair was quite a novelty for most of us. But the seventh term saw the class really come into its own. After a very lively and fair election, Dominick Annese, Vivian Simon, Regina Haas, Gertrude Hofmann, and Peggy O'Brien were chosen as our Senior Class officers. After their induction they set about preparing for our first Senior dance, which took place on May 8, in the boys' large gym.

The Senior term was the very essence of excitement and gratification. In the field of sports we cheered to the glorious victories of our football team. Our social life, too, brought laughs and joys to be cherished forever. A Hallowe'en dance was held in the real pumpkin manner, with pranks and jokes practised by all on all. The week of November 4th witnessed inflated Senior chests (and heads) walking through Evander hallways. The cause, naturally, was our Senior hats . . . Quite a different atmosphere was noted around the school at this time with many Freshmen running for cover. December opened upon one of the major events in the history of the class—Senior Week—during which was presented The Warrior's Husband, with Frances Keitel, Theresa Scafidi, Henry Gosch, Bernard Rosenfeld, Richard Birnberg, Emma Goldfarb, and Sam Rubenstein as the chief stalwarts of entertainment. Our achievements did not cease here. The following day the Frolic Day dance was given in the Girls' large gym. Immediately following the mid-terms the Prom was held at the Ritz Carlton. Mac Pallack and his orchestra supplied syncopated rhythm for the formally garbed Seniors and Senioritas. This gala event fitly climaxed the social calendar of the class of January 1937. In the wake of these bright days we graduate into the new beyond. A richer, and more mature plant has been the ultimate result of this entire day of continual sunshine—a composite symbol representing four years of mental and spiritual formation in the Evander mold. The morrow will see the wake of a new sun illuminating new and thrilling vistas. As Evander products, we are prepared!

F R O M T H E C R O W ' S N E S T

After many weary years of using the trial and error method (mostly error), I can safely say, Wow!, for I have finally uncovered the secrets of those ultra-mystic Indian prophets . . . Watch closely now, while I pour a small amount of this glorified seltzer (champagne to you) into this luxurious looking glass . . . Silence please, while I put the bath towel on my head (all Hindus wear 'em), take a hefty sip of the giggle water, and gaze into the champagne glass . . . Now, if you'll all quietly hum the clairvoyant's theme song . . . You all know it. It's called I Won't Trance . . . (Another sip of champagne) . . . Quiet now . . . A-hah, a vision . . . the bubbles are clearing . . . a host of Senior Celebrities some ten years from now! . . . Time marches on! It's 1947! And the first celeb to hit my eye is none other than the honorable DOMENICK ANNESE—arguing that he's been going to Syracuse ever since '37 and why haven't they noticed him? Now other figures crowd into the vision. Ecce homines! Ecce feminae! Behold, look, see: ROY McARDLE—Posing on billboards for collar ads. INGRID LEIRE—Turning down her 5,000th Hollywood proposal. MR. BURSTEIN—Reduced to selling ham sandwiches in a Jerusalem synagogue. MATTHEW MIDDLETON—Playing Tarzan in a sideshow. ANTHONY SCHIAVONE—Really a "pop" now and buying shoes for triplets. PEGGY O'BRIEN—Putting Emily Post out of a job. GERTRUDE HOFMANN—Obtaining her college diploma while no one was looking.

MARION JENNINGS—Modeling ear muffs in Brazil. LILLIAN DOLGIN—Trying to recall how she looked with her chin down. PHIL GROSSMAN—Answering radio contests—50 words, no more, no less! ADOLPH JACOBY—Third assistant to an organ grinder (who doesn't swing). FRANCES QUITTEL—Harmonizing with those Chicken Sisters! UDITH STEIN—Shouting praises of The Warrior's Husband. DOTTY GRAF—Perambulating down Barnes Avenue. EVELYN WEISSBERG—Ghost writing those Cantor Scripts (Et tu Brutus). PHYLLIS LEVENSON—Selling magazine subscriptions in Scotland. HANNAH GOTTEHRER —Truckin' to the Jugoslavia national anthem. WILLIAM STUBENVOLL—Putting the ham in Hamlet.

RICHARD BIRNBERG—Doubling for Johnny Weismuller as Tarzan. MR. RYAN—Still threatening to publish those Memoirs. PEP KAWALLER—Making Floyd Gibbons quit in despair. JACK COTTIN—Peddling his own liquor (cottin gin). JULIA VON FRANK—Down in Mexico, trying to collect rent from the border (boarder). GRACE EWEN—Writing those little greeting card jingles. MR. QUIMBY—Practising for the 1948 Olympics by chasing "cutters" around the building! . . . And I, of course, was good at school, I never had no vices; I lost my job at the Five and Ten—I couldn't remember the prices!

It would be impossible to complete our scholastic voyage without expressing our gratitude to the pilots of our class who safely guided us on our trip over the sea of knowledge. It is now when our trip is nearly over that we realize the profound influence they wielded in shaping our characters. We thank these educators as we happily complete our journey. We may cast off other ties but not those which bind us to them; for these ties are above earthly things. We leave our mentors with our fervent wishes for . . . fair weather and clear sailing

OPPORTUNITIES

for High School Graduates

There are more opportunities for employment in the field of business today than in any other profession. Many high school principals advise students who have no definite plans to take business courses.

Rhodes School offers courses leading to Secretarial, Accounting, and Executive positions in business. Time required depends upon course selected and previous education. High school commercial course graduates complete advanced training quickly and are entitled to employment assistance.

SAILOR'S CHANTY

(Air: Organ Grinder's Swing)

Put your books and cares aside,
Take a step and then a glide:
That is all you have to know,
'Round and 'round the hall you go.

It's fun to dance,
Here's to romance.

Listen to that band awhile,
Music in the latest style:
Rhythm from the jungle wilds,
Swing on down Evander Childs.

Too soon to be

A memory

Laughter gay and happy song
Speed the evening hours along:
Here's a hand and give me thine
For the sake of Auld Lang Syne.

With sincerest best wishes for the future in anything you undertake.

Best wishes
